

Full stops

We use full stops to:

- end a sentence that tells you something
- end a sentence that gives a command (when it is not strong)

Examples

The cat is asleep.

Please open your books.

english.litlings.com | free to print and copy for classroom use